
Thermodynamics In Biochemical Engineering

biochemical thermodynamics - jones & bartlett learning - 4 chapter 1 biochemical thermodynamics † a negative sign for ΔG implies that the system has a lower energy in state b than in state a; informally, b is energetically "downhill" from a. † for a cyclic process, taking a closed system from state a to b and back to a, ΔG is zero (figure 1-2). chapter 2: thermodynamics of biochemical reactions - chapter 3: thermodynamics of biochemical reactions 3.1 introduction 3.2 representation of a biochemical reaction 3.3 maximal available work that can be obtained from a biochemical reaction 3.4 the spontaneous direction of the reaction and the equilibrium constant 3.5 the standard state activities (concentrations) used for biochemical reactions
